A CHICAGO professor translates the Bible and cuts out completely John's story of the woman Christ forgave, saying to the collection of old gentlemen, with stones in their hands:

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

JOHN NEVER wrote that, says the learned translator; somebody put it in. Another learned man say the Book of John was written two or three hundred years after the death of Christ and, if that be true, John might have missed something.

IF NOW some other wise person would cut out of the New Testament "The Sermon on the Mount" and "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not," the job would be perfect.

The story about the woman forgiven, in the eighth chapter of John, is especially interesting, because in all the Bible it contains the only reference to any writing done by Christ: "Jesus stooped down and with his finger wrote on the ground." And that answers, in an interesting way, other wise men, including Renan, who say that Christ, a simple peasant of Galilee, never could read or write.

SOMEBODY offered a reward of $200 "for the best epithet, abusive, strong, to arouse the drinker of bootleg whiskey to his folly."

Frederick Landis contributes the following paragraph, which is better than any epithet:

The smallest monkey in captivity resides in Los Angeles. It weighs only four ounces and eats its weight in figs and grapes every day. The biggest monkey in captivity is the man who, observing the congestion at the cemetery gate, persists in drinking it without making his bootlegger drink it first.

IT PAYS to save little things, and some very rich men are rich because they know it. But suggest saving to a young man who hasn't got anything—he smiles compassionately and passes on.

Henry Ford doesn't do that. His plant in Detroit saves waste paper, string, used-up heads of mops, broken nails, nuts, bolts, etc. At the end of a year the saving equals a million dollars a month.

JUDGE FORD, of New York's Supreme Court, says "unclean books are a world peril." His agitation does credit to his mind and heart, but fortunately the books that worry him are not a world peril.

Books and speech today are better than they ever have been in the world's history. The ordinary book of a short time back would shock the most hardened of today. Queen Elizabeth's ordinary conversation, if she could return with it, would cause Justice Ford to send her to jail for vile indecency.

We are bad enough, but we are getting better. We don't need any censorship. If a man commits a crime, put him in jail AFTER he has committed it.

YESTERDAY Dr. Bernd, distinguished surgeon, dropped dead in Philadelphia, playing handball. Every other day you read of some middle-aged man dropping dead unnecessarily.

For a doctor there is no excuse. If Dr. Bernd were using an old rubber band to hold together precious papers he would handle that old band most carefully, knowing how easily it would break.

The heart of a middle-aged

Young Woman and 2 Youths Halted by Police Bullets After Lowell Robbery

A month ago today Thomas Duffy, twenty-one years old, was smothered to death in a garage in the rear of his home, No. 69 Montgomery street, South End. He was killed by deadly carbon monoxide gas. With him a companion died also.

Today his sister, Mary Duffy, twenty years old and pretty, is under arrest in Stoneham charged with being a bandit queen and leader of a gang of strong-armed fur robbers.

She was captured by police with two boy companions after a Lowell store had been burglarized and there had followed a wild ride, during which the girl and two boys were the target for shots fired by more than a dozen patrolmen.

"It was the first time she was ever out all night," said her stepmother, Mrs. Michael J. Duffy, today. "Got in with bad companions, that's the story."

BARRICADE HALTS BANDITS.

Mrs. Duffy runs a boarding house. The girl's father is a painter. Revealment of his daughter in a role unknown to him following so soon after the death of her brother, left the father speechless with grief.

Capture of Mary Duffy revealed, police say, a machine full of fur coats stolen from the store of Rose Caisse, Merrimac street, Lowell.

A padded brick was tossed through the show window early today and the loot removed under Mary's orders, police say.

With her companions she fled in an automobile as a patrolman ran on to the scene. A chase from Lowell's down town business square through Reading, with patrolmen discharging pistols in an endeavor

MOVE TO BAR NORMAND FILMS

Memphis, Tenn., and Topeka, Kan., Put Up Bars on Her Pictures

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—While a doctor in the Good Samaritan Hospital today operated upon the appendix of Mabel Normand, screen celebrity, officials in other parts of the United States operated drastically upon her reputation.

The girl with the coal black hair, brown eyes and winsome smile bids fair to join the procession of famous film folks who have stepped into discard following crime connections and unwholesome publicity.

Miss Normand's connection with the New Year shooting of Courtland S. Dines, wealthy oil man from Colorado and "playmate" of several beautiful actresses in Hollywood, following her connection with the murder of the famous director, William Desmond Taylor, was given the first push in the downward skid to oblivion by two States today.

At Memphis, Tenn., films with Mabel Normand appearing in them were ordered barred permanently.

Films featuring Edna Purviance,

HIGH SCHOOL SPOONING BANNED

Low-Cut Dresses, Rouge and "Steadies" Also Tabooed by Haverhill Dean

Haverhill, Jan. 4.—Clinging, low-cut dresses, spooning in dark corners, use of rouge and powder and even keeping steady company with the same boy are taboo at the Haverhill High School.

The fair co-eds were summoned to the school assembly hall today and told by Miss Marion Hudson, dean of the girls, that their deportment and mode of dress would have to undergo a sharp revision.

What made the new addict particularly disagreeable to many of the girls is the fact that the dean herself, is only twenty-eight years of age, and, to say the least, very comely.

Dean Hudson laid down the law in a series of "Don'ts."

DEAN BANS "SPOONING."

Here they are:

Don't wear dresses which cling to your body or limbs.

Don't spoon or "pet" with boys in the dark corridors or corners of the high school.

Archie Jeanette Is Accused of Larceny; 20,000 Shares of Worthless Stock Found

Archie Jeanette, one of the eight men for whom warrants were issued in connection with the $1,000,000 crash of the T. J. Day & Co. and Wellington & Co., brokerage houses, was arrested today and brought into municipal court, on larceny charges.

Jeanette is said by Assistant District Attorney Caro to have acted as a salesman for the "Rosenberg" gang among the Armenians and to have worked most of the time in Watertown.

Three counts, totaling alleged thefts of $1,000, were lodged against Jeanette. Chief Justice Bolster of the Municipal Court ordered him held in $2,500 bail.

Boston police today found 20,000 shares of worthless New York Curb stock in a safe deposit box rented by the T. J. Day Company.

Probing reports that the brokerage house had a cache of stocks, bonds and cash valued at thousands of dollars, planted in a safe deposit box at the Shawmut National Bank, inspectors Hagerty and Farrell of the bank squad opened the box and found only the worthless papers.

The stocks uncovered are either obsolete the companies having gone out of business, or have no standing in the financial world. The certificates were turned over to the district attorney's office by the police.

Following the search of the safe

Let's Hear How You Like the American in It's New Garb

It is a HIT!

Everybody likes the American in its new garb. They say so. This newspaper has received letters from all parts of New England, congratulating us on the many new features that have been added to Boston's greatest newspaper.

Now let us hear from you.

What do you think of our new uncolored comics, two full pages, on Pages 18 and 19.

How do you like the best Radio Page in New England? It's on Page 20. And what of that wonderful Woman's Page, Madam, on Page 17. Isn't that a "sweetheart!" as they say in sports circles. The fiction page is a wonder—Page 17. Are you reading that great novel, "Stella Dallas?"

Of course you read Arthur Brisbane's great "Today" column on the first page, also those great thinkers, Dr. Frank Crane, Herbert Kaufman and others on the back page. There also is the inimitable Tom Powers, with his cartoons, and the Helping Hand department.

Add the news as only the American gets it and writes it, two fine sport pages, and you have a newspaper that can't be approached in this part of the country.

MOVE IN TWO STATES TO BAR MABEL NORMAND'S PICTURES

MEMPHIS, TENN. AND TOPEKA, KAN. TAKE ACTION FOLLOWING DINES SHOOTING

also present in Dines' apartment when Horace Greer, Miss Normand's chauffeur, admits shooting the millionaire, were ordered suspended temporarily.

At Topeka, Kansas, Attorney-General C. H. Griffith ordered the State Board of Censors to bar all Mabel Normand films from the state.

The Taylor murder put the skids under Mary Miles Minter.

The tragic death of Virginia Rappe at a "Party" Arbuckle party in San Francisco ended the famous round-the-clock night of the man of public favor.

Now comes the shooting of Dines and the action of an aroused public conscience to operate on the reputation of pretty little Mabel Normand, who curiously enough was of the happy triumvirate of Fatty Arbuckle in the old days of custard pie comedies.

Fear that Dines might die sent officials to his bedside in the Good Samaritan Hospital today to take an ante mortem statement. It will be asked to reiterate every particular of the shooting. Pneumonia has made his condition unfavorable.

A complaint drawn up charging Greer with attempt to commit murder will be held in abeyance, it was expected today, until the probable outcome of Dines' battle for life can be determined.

Dines, it was said at the hospital today, had a comfortable night.

Mr. Normand operated on for chronic appendicitis, is "doing well." She may be able to return to her home in two or three weeks.

Greer was under the care of a physician in his cell today. Stomach trouble has developed and medical aid has been confirmed his friends, it was said, that he is a sufferer from tuberculosis. He never cried or showed worry over the outcome of his own case.

"Just wait until that little girl is herself again," he said, speaking of Miss Normand, "and she will hear that I acted in self-defense and I'll only wish Dines reached for a bottle to strike me."

STICKS TO STORY

Miss Purviance repeated denials today that she and Dines were engaged.

"Courtland has had two tries at marriage," she said, "and I guess he was disgusted enough not to want to try it fortify good friendship with, well, a bond that held one.

"As for me, I am heart and fancy free. Some day, maybe, I'll meet with the right man, the right one, but as yet I haven't met him. I'm too busy. Then I have mother and my nephew. They are family enough for me. No one, not even a husband, could be better than Mumsy.

"Mabel had to start this tale of my being engaged to Courtland just because we were in his apartment when her chauffeur went off his head and made all this mess."

MYSTERY JINX

Miss Purviance picked up a copy of a newspaper and pointed to a picture of Greer.

"Look at that face," she exclaimed, "is that the face of a sane man, I ask you? You see that man is irresponsible.

"Poor Mabel. There certainly is a bad following her. Why, nobody knows. But, oh the secret tragedy in her life—if I could only tell or what a fine she has."

Dines is fighting on two fronts for his life—fighting a bullet wound which hit his lung and pneumonia.

In an effort to clear from the case the clouds of contradictions cast by variant statements by Mrs. Edith Burns, companion, mentor and housekeeper for Miss Normand, the police questioned Greer as to the incidents at the Normand home on West Seventh street, immediately preceding the telephone call from Miss Normand while she yet was at Dines' apartments.

Following the telephone call from Miss Normand and its asserted interruption by Dines, snatching the telephone from the star's hands, Greer asserted, as heretofore, that he went to Miss Normand's room and obtained the weapon figuring in the case from a bureau drawer.

When Mrs. Burns saw him put it in his pocket, he said, she cautioned him:

"Be careful."

This assertion surprised Lieutenant Jarvis in questioning the chauffeur, because Mrs. Burns had asserted she knew nothing about the pistol or any pistol, for that matter taken from the star's room. Also, Mrs. Burns asserted, she did not see Greer go to Miss Normand's room to get the weapon.

Yet, today, when questioned, Greer asserted Mrs. Burns knew he left, armed, for Dines' quarters, and now, also how he came to be armed.

"Why I mentioned the pistol to Mrs. Burns at least three weeks before New Year's, Mrs. Burns at that time told me she was afraid Miss Normand might use it.

"So I asked her (Mrs. Burns) to get it for me. I told her I would put it way where I could easily get it in case it was needed in the house."

GRABBED PISTOL

Continuing, Greer told Detective Jarvis:

"After she (Mrs. Burns) turned from the telephone, she told me she had just heard Dines say Miss Normand could not come home.

"I dashed upstairs, took the pistol from the drawer, slipped the cartridges out of the chamber, and hearing only those that were needed in the magazine.

"When I came down stairs I slipped the pistol in my pocket as I passed her on the way out of the house to the garage to jump into the car and drive to Dines'. Mrs. Burns said, noting the pistol, 'Now be careful.'"

Passing on in his narrative to his arrival at the Dines' apartment and the ensuing argument there, Greer reiterated:

"I never would have fired if I had not believed I was in danger of my life."

Greer complained of illness from stomach trouble. Examination by the Police Hospital physicians confirmed Greer's statement that he is tuberculur, and also a victim of heart trouble.

ARRAIGN GREER

Greer was to be arraigned today on a complaint issued late Thursday by the District Attorney's office and $10,000 bail will be demanded.

Miss Normand was operated on by Dr. Cochran, long prominent in Southern California as a surgeon, and after it was over he pronounced it a complete success, with prospects that the patient should be able to leave the hospital in three weeks.

Just before being taken into the operating room Miss Normand inquired as to Dines condition, smilingly when told he was better.

Her operation, it was revealed, had been contemplated two years.

Dr. Cochran expressed himself Thursday night as "satisfied" with Dines condition and that the patient was doing as well as could be expected." Dr. Cochran stated that while a threatened attack of pneumonia had furnished complications, the case was of a mild form.

"I hope to check the pneumonia and reduce it. It is not of a kind to justify looking for a crisis. Despite labored breathing and extreme pain the patient is holding his strength well."

MISSED BY HAIR

Dr. Cochran said the bullet from Miss Normand's "prop" pistol entered the right side of Dines' breast below the ribs and emerged from behind the shoulder, ranging upward.

"He missed death by a hair's breadth," the physician said. Internal hemorrhage set in, necessitating the insertion of a tube to drain the lung of blood. On account of the patient's temperature, questioning by the police was advised against by Dr. Cochran.

Edna Purviance, the other screen star, who was Dines' guest at the fateful "party," denied she was engaged to wed Dines. She intimated that if she had said she was to marry Dines, Miss Normand had suggested it to her.

"Mr. Dines and I are simply friends—just playmates," she said.

"Courtland has had two tries at marriage and I think their results disgusted him with matrimony. So why should he want to spoil a grand friendship by marrying me?"

CHAPLIN MAY ACT

Raised to the pinnacle of stardom by none other than Charles Spencer Chaplin, a hard task master in things artistic, as a reward of her noteworthy efforts in his recently produced dramatic screen undertaking, she now faces, it is said, the prospects of being relegated, as a result of the affairs of Tuesday evening.

Chaplin, it was reported today, had expressed himself as being of the "more mature judgment" that the famous blonde who was his leading woman for years before he starred her perhaps, after all, is not the actress best suited for the chief feminine role in his next picture, which will be a story of the Canadian northwest.

Chaplin explains that the script calls for a woman smaller than Miss Purviance, and that if she is starred in the pictures, the script will have to be changed.

HAYS ON WAY

Parenthetically it may be said Chaplin himself wrote the story and prepared the script—also, that, about a month ago, he enthusiastically announced that Miss Purviance, "of course," would fill the indicated role. At the time, he at some length announced Miss Purviance's selection as a reward for her previous screen efforts which had so pleased him.

In the connection Hollywood is awaiting the arrival here of Will M. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association of America. The supreme ex-officio arbiter of morals, it is expected, will reach Los Angeles tomorrow. In the meantime, Fred H. Beetson, Hays' Hollywood scout, of fidelity known as Western representative, denies he has received any communications from his chief, or that he has sent any to Hays in the East.

Edna Purviance Five Times Near Death

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (Universal).—Five times near death—twice in automobile accidents—twice by illness—and once almost asphyxiated. Miss Edna Purviance, one of the central figures in the Courtland Dines shooting affray, has been the heroine in a number of interesting misadventures.

The day before Thanksgiving, 1918, she was driving a big new car up a steep hill in the residence section of this city. She had speeded the large machine to make the climb and was squarely on the tracks when she was hit by a street car traveling at a rapid rate of speed.

Her car was hurled with terrific force clear across the street and struck a telegraph pole, breaking it off near the base. The pelts star hung gamely to the steering wheel and escaped without injury.

"It's a wonder I wasn't killed," she told friends after the mishap. "I surely thought the end had come when that street car slammed into me."

The car was reduced to a splintered mass of wreckage.

IN AUTO CRASH

In April, 1920, she was returning from a beach trip in a machine driven by C. M. Greer. They were in the Hollywood section when an automobile driven at a rapid rate of speed with two men in it struck the machine.

She was injured, but insisted she did not want to go to a hospital. She was taken to her home by a passing motorist and given medical attention. Eye-witnesses said the escape from death by Miss Purviance and her companion bordered on the miraculous.

Late in February, 1919, she had another close call. She was in her studio dressing room reading. The weather was sharp and she turned on a small gas heater to take the chill from the place. Reclining on a couch reading, waiting to be called on the set, she fell asleep. The gas heater went out and soon the room was filled with the deadly fumes.

OVERCOME BY GAS

Her pet dog "Billy" was at her feet. Animal instinct warned the dog something was wrong and he began barking furiously. The noise he made attracted the attention of another member of the cast who made an investigation. He found Miss Purviance unconscious. She was given first aid treatment and soon recovered, insisting on working the remainder of the day.

Two years ago Miss Purviance contracted a cold which soon developed into pleurisy. A month previous, November 25, 1922, she had started work on her first starring vehicle under the direction of Charlie Chaplin, she was eager to work and neglected the cold, which in turn developed into pleurisy.

Doctors had a stubborn fight to prevent this illness from ending fatally and she insisted on going back to work a week before Christmas of that year. Less than three weeks later she had a relapse and her physician, Dr. Roland Cummings, said that this was due to her desire to return to work too soon. Again there was a hard battle to save her life but the best of medical attention, coupled with her own ammunition, saw her through this crisis.

Won't Bar Films Unless Complaint Is Made

New York, Jan. 4.—The New York State Moving Picture Commission will take no action toward considering barring films in which Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance appear, unless complaint is made, officials said today.

The commission, as a rule, passes on the film itself and not individual actors and actresses.

MORE DRAMA IN THEIR LIVES THAN ON SCREEN

"Oh, don't die, don't die, please don't," sobbed little Edna Purviance, clutching Courtland Dines to her breast as he lay on a hospital cot.

"They can't kill me," he replied, and again she sobbed, "Oh! Courtland, I love you, I love you. It would kill me, too, if you were to die."

But later she refused to confirm the rumor that Dines was her fiance, and Hong present at his shooting, seemed to know little of what transpired.

Mabel Normand contradicts her chauffeur's story of his shooting of Courtland S. Dines, millionaire oil man, in her presence New Year's night.

"I don't know why he tells you these things," says the woman whose letters to the dead William Desmond Taylor were never made public.

"I was in another room when the shooting occurred. I knew nothing about any quarrel until the shots rang out," she almost wept.

EDNA PURVIANCE

Long Charile Chaplin's leading woman. She is shown here in her role of Chaplin's first serious venture in the motion picture field, "A Woman of Paris," which but recently made its bow to an audience.

RHODE ISLAND OFFICIALS TO PROBE 'DIVORCE MILL SCANDAL'

AUTHORESS CAUSE OF ACTIVITY

Airing of "Residential" Claims Likely if Mrs. Sanderson Fails to Face Court

By HAROLD B. HALL

Providence, R. I., Jan. 4.—Rhode Island's greatest divorce scandal is in the offing.

Unless present plans of Rhode Island officials go wrong there will be a blowup in the divorce circles of this little State that will send many divorcees who have secured their freedom here scurrying to distant points, and will cut off a great portion of the fat income now pouring into the coffers of Rhode Island divorce lawyers.

MECCA FOR STAGE FOLK.

Providence has long been the mecca of the theatrical people seeking divorces. Among those who have established "residences" there for this purpose are: Mrs. "Fatty" Arbuckle, Lowell Sherman, Crane Wilbur, Pearl White and Mrs. Ebba McCarthy.

Attorney General H. L. Carpenter today announced that he will make no move in the divorce situation until after the Nina Wilcox Putnam case has been settled by the courts. Then he promises action if the case is turned over to him.

PROMISES QUICK ACTION.

"The case of Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson has not been turned over to me officially as yet," he stated, "but if she does not appear in court before Judge Barrows and explain to the entire satisfaction of the court the matter will be referred to me. Then I shall take action and quick and decisive action.

"The Nina Wilcox Putnam case will probably open the door to a lot of things pertaining to Rhode Island divorces that need to be aired and remedied. There have been to many scandals in Rhode Island divorce circles. It is time some of these things were investigated and definite action taken. This case will probably start all that and more.

GIVES TIME TO EXPLAIN.

"I conferred with Judge Barrows on the matter of the Nina Wilcox Putnam case and he told me that he has given Mrs. Putnam a reasonable length of time to appear before him and explain. If she does not come and make satisfactory explanation he will turn the case over to me. Then will be time enough to start. But in such a case we will start."

Already the local lawyers are gathering in little knots about the courthouse discussing the Nina Wilcox Putnam case and its probable effect on the future of the Rhode Island divorce business. They are plainly worried. The divorce business has been the source of a big and easy income for many Providence lawyers.

CHANCE FOR EVERYBODY.

Asked today what he considered a "reasonable length of time" such as he has given Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson to appear, Judge Barrows declared that it depends on circumstances. "I shall give this woman what I think is a reasonable amount of time and if she has not come in then I shall simply put the Attorney General after her.

"I do not want anything to be unfair in my courtroom. I want to give everybody a chance, but I insist that there be fairness on both sides and I insist on being convinced of the legal residence of a petitioner before I grant a divorce. In this case I am giving the petitioner the opportunity to come before me and explain. If she is right she has the chance to tell us."

RICH ADMIRERS WERE PREY OF DEAD BEAUTY

Girl Who Met Death at Roadhouse Helped Admirers Dissipate Fortunes

Providence, R. I., Jan. 4.—Celia Crowley, beauty parlor beauty whose fatal fall at the entrance to Hillcrest Inn in Cumberland at 3 o'clock on New Year's morning is being probed by police, coroner and prosecuting officers, had helped four young men to dissipate small fortunes.

Exactly what caused the popular little beauty's death and whether anyone was with here when she fell helpless upon the steps of the roadhouse may be determined next week when Coroner Walter H. Sharkey of Woonsocket conducts the inquest.

Meanwhile, policemen and others familiar with the night life of Rhode Island's capital have been recalling as far as possible, the names of the wealthy young men who, one after another, have been known as the girl's favorites since her arrival in this city four years ago.

SIGNIFICANT NOTE.

Several hours after the girl's death in Woonsocket Hospital, on New Year's Day, a letter carrier left at the door of her apartment a greeting card mailed a short distance west of New York City and signed "S. M. R." It brought a significant five-word message, as follows:

"Reconsider—It is not too late."

"S. M. R.," according to a Providence detective who knows the sporty set as well as any other man spent a lot of money on the Crowley girl before a reincarnation of the best parents would not claim the body. As a matter of fact it is her father who has been most insistent upon an inquest.

Then there was the boy who came into $50,000 on the death of his father, and who had blown $15,000 of it—mostly in Celia Crowley's company—before his mother discovered what was going on, ran frantically to her attorney and succeeded in having the court rivet a few steel bands around the remaining $35,000.

It is not insinuated that Celia Crowley knew the boy was throwing away a fortune.

EMBEZZLER ON LIST

Nor does anyone say that the girl who met Death at the end of the primrose path had any guilty knowledge that No. 4, on her list of admirers with plenty of gold, was an embezzler to the extent of $20,000 when finally he broke away and lost himself in the Far West in an effort to forget some of his experiences here and at the same time make good to those he had robbed.

No. 2 on the list of the little butterfly's admirers is the middle-aged man of wealth who offered $500 towards the expenses of his little friend's funeral. That was when the rumor was being circulated that her parents would not claim the body.

2 CAPTURED IN RUM RAID AT POINT OF PINES

Booze Runners, Surprised, Dump Cargo Into Sea and Escape in Motor Boat

Surprised by officers while unloading a cargo of alcohol at Point of Pines, near Revere Beach, today, the crew of the rum-running power boat was forced to jettison the cargo and make a quick getaway.

A touring car, a truck and the drivers of the machines were arrested by the Revere police, while hundreds of men and boys gathered and endeavored to fish out of the water the cans of alcohol which the bootleggers threw overboard. Ten gallons of alcohol were seized.

Later the runner was found abandoned in the middle of the river.

The boat carried license No. 548-C. It is a power boat and evidently used as a fishing craft.

Investigation at the State House showed that the license for the boat was issued to Frank Bertilino of Gloucester, but that on November 7, 1923, he transferred ownership to one William McDonald.

Under the Federal laws the new owner should have immediately registered the boat, but this was never done.

The cargo of alcohol with the boat carried originated in Belgium, according to labels from the cans found on the boat.

Officer Harry C. Jackson of the Revere Beach station was attracted to Point of Pines by flickering lights shortly before daybreak. He found half a dozen men unloading alcohol from the moored powerboat to the truck and touring car.

The officer notified the Revere police, the district being outside the zone of the park police, and Sergeant Blythe and a squad of officers were rushed to the scene.

An outlook warned the bootleggers as the police approached and the crew dumped the cargo overboard and sped away.

The auto drivers gave their names as Harry Miller, twenty, ironworker of Upham street, Malden, and Leo Bronstein, thirty-one, a truckman of Saratoga street, East Boston.

50 IN PEABODY HAVE SCARLET FEVER

Peabody has fifty cases of scarlet fever. The J. B. Thomas Hospital has been quarantined by the health authorities following two cases reported in that institution. Miss Stella McGregor, a nurse, is the latest victim. The first case was Miss Mary Rooney, also a nurse, who was stricken a week ago.

CONVICT NORTHRUP AS "FAKE" OFFICER

Howard B. Northrop of Somerville was found guilty in United States District Court today of impersonating a federal officer. The maximum penalty is $1,000 fine or three years in prison, or both. Northrop claimed he had been "framed" by Chief Dyer, Lieutenants Chaney and Davis and Patrolman McLoughlin and Garrity of the Revere police force. He said the officers had defrauded him of $6,000 in a rum deal.

FINDS DE VALERA IN GOOD HEALTH

Dublin, Jan. 4. (I.N.S.)—Eamon De Valera, imprisoned, Republican leader, was interviewed today by John Finnerty, an American lawyer who came to Ireland to investigate the disposition of the funds raised in the United States for the Sinn Fein. Finnerty refused to reveal the subject of the interview. He said De Valera appeared in good health.

Hurt in Game; Dies

Gloversville, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Harry J. Abbott, captain of the Morrisville Agricultural College basketball team, died of blood poisoning resulting from a slight injury received in a basketball game.

NORWOOD MAN DEAD OF POISON RUM IN N. Y.

New York, Jan. 4.—Poison liquor added to its toll of victims today when James Welch of Norwood, Mass., and William Mannin of Phelps, N. Y., died in furnished rooms in Brooklyn. Efforts to save them were unsuccessful. The deaths brought the total deaths in New York from poison liquor to twenty since Christmas Eve.

JEALOUS ARTIST SENDS POISON CANDY TO WIFE

Confesses He Did So to "Make Her Think More of Him"

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 4. (I.N.S.)—Jealously of a young husband and his peculiar plan to hold his wife's affection caused him to send her poison candy, police said today, which might have caused the death of seven persons.

The man, Raoul Vandegenachte, an artist, is under arrest and has confessed, the police say, that he put paris green in candy and mailed it to his wife "hoping to make her ill, so she would be dependent on him and think more about him."

Mrs. Vandegenachte offered the candy to other roomers in the house, including two children, and they might have eaten it had not one of them discovered traces of powder on the bonbons. Examination showed the candies had been cut open and filled with the poison.

ACCUSE COP OF FIGHT WITH FIREMEN

Patrolman Deheny, Drunk, Tries to Pull Gun Is Report to Commissioner

Reports made by a citizen that Patrolman Timothy A. Deneby of Station 7, East Boston, was drunk and engaged in a fight at Engine 36 firehouse, Charlestown, New Year's night, are being investigated by Boston police.

According to John H. Merrick, secretary to Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, a disinterested citizen reported to the commissioner that the officer, while badly intoxicated, became angry when firemen chided him about not having served in the World War, and that he struck one fireman across the face with his cap.

Deneby was disarmed by firemen when he made a move to draw his revolver, according to the report, the firemen finally taking the policeman to his home and later returning the revolver.

Police Captains Michael Goff and John Hickey have been detailed by Commissioner Wilson to investigate the charges.

Deneby is married and has been on the force for two months. At Station 7 it was stated that Deneby reported off duty sick on Tuesday and has not been at work since that time.

Britain to Stamp Out Leprosy With New Cure

London, Jan. 4.—The British Empire Leprosy Relief Association plans an intensive campaign to rid the British possessions of the disease.

There are said to be 200,000 lepers in India, Africa and the West Indies.

Recent experiments have shown, scientists assert, that leprosy can be cured by injections of Chaulmoogra Oil. Sir Leonard Rogers says definite evidence has been obtained that when the oil is injected the bacilli of leprosy are broken up and disappear from the tissues.

KING TUT'S BIG SARCOPHAGUS IS FOUND

Pharaoh's Casket of White and Red Granite Revealed in 30-Century Old Tomb

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 4.—Egyptologists exploring the thirty century old tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Kings, today penetrated to the granite sarcophagus, supposed to contain the mummy of the ancient Pharaoh.

Howard Carter, in charge of dismantling the tomb, has not set any date for the opening of the sarcophagus.

The explorers who, yesterday, found a third shrine, were surprised today to find a fourth. When it was opened the great red and white granite sarcophagus was revealed to their eyes. It was a massive affair of superior workmanship.

Delicate coloring, still fresh after 3,000 years, marked the designs traced upon the shrines.

VICTOR SEARLES INDICTED IN 'RING' PROBE

Victim of $50,000 Shakedown Plot Charged in Secret Bill With Statutory Offence

Victor Albert Searles, one of the alleged victims of the so-called Boston blackmail ring, has been indicted by the Suffolk Grand Jury, it became known today, as a result of one of the $50,000 operations in which the ring is said to have used Eleanor, Paul and Blanche Barnes.

The indictment was a secret one, returned just before the Grand Jury finished its six months' term of service. According to such information as was available today he is charged with a statutory offence. He is said to be in Florida.

The first inkling that Searles was wanted came when Police Inspector John Mitchell was preparing to circularize the country with Searles' photograph, so that he might be apprehended by police anywhere and held for the Boston authorities.

Attorney Withington has been asked to produce Searles to answer to an indictment.

Searles was described to and advised to come to Boston at his earliest convenience, and Attorney Withington received a reply stating his client would be here early next week.

HOUSE SESSION LASTS ONLY 15 MINUTES

Solons Act on a Few Matters and Then Adjourn Until Monday

The House of Representatives held a fifteen-minute session today.

The petition of Senator Hennessey of Boston to prohibit the Elevated from employing aliens was referred to the Committee of Rules on motion of Victor Jewett, House floor leader. The Senate had referred it to the Committee on Street Railways.

The petition of Senator Gibbons of Lawrence, which the Senate had referred to the Committee on State Administration, was referred to the Committee on Power and Light.

On motion of Representative Jewett, the hours of meeting for the first four days of the legislative week were fixed at 2 p. m., and at 11 on Fridays, no session to be held on Saturdays.

A petition investing availability for teachers' benefit under the retirement act was referred in non-concurrence to the Committee on Social Welfare, instead of the Committee on Education, as the Senate has one.

deposit box, Inspector Hagarty left for New York, where he will endeavor to round up officers of the Day Company and Wellington & Co., for whom warrants were issued by Judge Michael J. Creed.

With a week's start, it is feared that some of the swindlers wanted may now be on the high seas bound for European or South American ports.

The "officers" of the companies filed last week, but the aid of the police departments throughout the country has been sought in an effort to locate them. The warrants for the arrest of the men were issued by Judge Michael J. Creed in Municipal Court. These men a d the characterizations given them by As-

LOST IN TRADES.

The five firm names used by the New York "Wallingfords" are J. H. Dube & Co., H. Dube & Co., Inc., Johnson & Co., T. J. Day & Co., and Wellington & Co.

Last May word went around among the "grafters" who specialize in fake stocks and bucket shops that "Eddie Rosenberg and his gang" had arrived in Boston and were laying plans for a cleaning.

The "gang" became conspicuous at once in the financial district by virtue of a $10,000 automobile painted yellow.

PARTIAL PAYMENT PLAN.

During the latter part of May, Daniel O'Rourke, who was then employed by Redmond & Company, was hired by Rosenberg to act as manager of the Dube firm. Offices were established on the third floor of No. 64 Devonshire street.

The brokerage office of J. H. Dube & Co. was typical in character to the old time "bucket shop." The method practiced differed in that customers were urged to buy stocks on the "partial payment" plan.

It has developed that John Carlick, Maynard bank teller now in the Concord Reformatory for stealing $24,000 from his employers, was one of the victims of the brokerage house swindlers.

Carlick is said to have lost $28,000 through the five firms operated by Konwiser and his associates in Boston and vicinity.

DID HOUDINI ACT.

Konwiser, the kingpin of the operations, had so arranged matters that he could slip from the offices of he Day & Wellington firms at No. 101 Milk street without meeting irate patrons of the firms who were demanding their money.

Edward Pranativer of Claybourne street, Dorchester, a salesman employed by T. J. Day & Co., told the authorities that Konwiser could make his getaway through a series of doors and that he repeatedly resorted to this Houdini act, particularly during the week preceding Christmas, when the affairs of the swindlers were tottering.

That Konwiser and his pals risked arrest to squeeze the last drop of juice from the pickings they uncovered in Boston, is borne out by Pranativer's story. He declared that as late as two days after Christmas Konwiser was on hand to gather up the odds and ends of checks and cash that still filtered into the offices.

On December 27 Moses Derhiguine of Danbdson, Ct., a client of Day & Co., and who did not suspect the nature of the firm's real business, sent a check for $1,000 to Konwiser to cover margins on some stock he ordered.

TEN MINUTES LATE.

Konwiser gave the check to Pranativer, telling him to hurry to the bank and have it certified. This was done and the check was then given to a Mr. Mondell.

Doethlaufne later became suspicious and hurried to the bank to stop payment on the check. He was ten minutes too late.

Ravenous Wolves Devour Man Near Italian Town

Aquila, Italy, Jan. 4.—Unarmed persons in this region are in danger of their lives from the attacks of ravenous wolves, driven from the Apennines to the lowlands by the deep snow and intense cold.

Cattle, sheep and goats have been the common prey of the wolves but near Cittaducale recently a beggar was attacked and devoured, only the skull and large bones remaining.

Bands of peasants have been formed to hunt the animals, some of which have descended through the Sabine hills toward Rome.

The girls sat almost stunned as the dean announced these rules of the future conduct in the school.

She declared that the conditions "so sought to correct were not repeated to her by others, but came to the attention through her own personal observation.

She said "the conduct of some of the girls on Merrimack street, the city's main thoroughfare, was scandalous, while the department of some of the girls at dances left much to be desired.

Just what went on at the meeting between the dean and the girls was supposed to remain secret, but ten minutes after the meeting was dismissed it was the talk of the town.

HAS SENT GIRLS HOME.

Miss Hudson refused to discuss specific instances of misconduct on the part of the girls, but she did discuss the general aspects of the case.

"At a recent dance of the junior and senior classes, I had to send seven girls home because they appeared in gowns cut extremely low and of such flimsy, clinging material that every curve of their bodies was clearly outlined," she said. "They were also rouged and powdered something awful.

"I have caught the boys and girls spooning in the dark recesses of the school, and that isn't good. I have seen the girls grabbing at the bats of the boys and pulling them about, which certainly isn't nice.

"I have sent home from school girls who have appeared with their faces rouged up. A girl with her face rouged is like a rosy red-cheeked apple that is rotten at the core.

"Finally, I don't think it is a good thing for high school girls to keep steady company with the same boys. If they want to go about with the boys, let them refrain from singling out 'steady company,' but be good, wholesome pals with all their boy friends."

DIVORCE ENDS SHORTCAKE ROMANCE

Young Wife of Williams, Lynn "Boy Millionaire," Gets Her Decree

Lynn three years ago. He was in business with Sari's father.

One night Billy called to talk business with Mr. Bakeman. Sari made a strawberry shortcake that melted in his mouth and melted his heart at the same time. Sari was then but seventeen.

"A wonderful match," said friends of the two.

Billy and Sari went off to Florida on their honeymoon. Today she told of how wonderful he was to her during those sweet days. Then they came back North and went to live with Sari's parents at Clifton.

Billy is a big, athletic fellow, standing over six feet tal. Sari is four feet six inches tal. Billy developed the habit of staying out to all hours of the night and giving 'business' as his excuse. Sari begun to have her doubts.

One night, Sari said, she called Billy a liar. She says that Billy thereupon forgot both her sex and her size and slapped her face. She said he kept her in fear and was "so big and stern."

TODAY

BALDWIN, the Prime Minister of England, who doesn't know exactly when he will be put out by Labor, is composing a speech for the King, who makes no bones about the fact that he doesn't write his own speeches. His job is to speak the piece after the representative of the people has written it.

They have some real democracy over there, although they keep the ancient forms.

CHARMING young Prince of Wales is going to Africa on a hunting expedition. But this time, with the Labor party in power, the young gentleman will travel on an ordinary passenger steamer. He won't take the battleship Renown, with a couple of thousand men as crew, burning many tons of coal to carry his important personality across the oceans.

British royalty is wise; it can take a hint.

THE royal family might say to the British Labor party, "Why should we not travel on a special battleship? Didn't the American Republicans send their President to Europe on a special battleship, with several other ships to do him honor?"

But to that British Labor would reply, "All very well, but here in England we are trying to establish real democracy, whereas in America they are doing all they can to establish plutocracy."

GIRL WHO TOOK POISON SHIELDS MAN'S NAME

Refuses to Tell Who Summoned Her From Waverly to South Station

Acting upon the request of the girl's father, executives of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company today directed that every effort be made to trace and identify the man who summoned Grace Oteri, twenty-two years old, from her home in Waverly to a meeting in the South Station, which was followed by her attempt at self-destruction.

When Mr. and Mrs. Oteri went out to the movies, and other members of the family left the house to find entertainment elsewhere, Grace washed the supper dishes and then sat down to a game of checkers with her seven-year-old brother, Charlie.

Grace Oteri.

Charlie answered a ring at the telephone.

"It's a gentleman," he reported, "he wants you, Grace."

According to the boy, his sister's talk over the telephone was brief. He could not hear what she said, but she was very much excited when she left the instrument, ran for her hat and coat and left the house.

One hour later persons in the waiting-room at the South Station heard a scream, and saw a black-haired, olive skinned young woman fall in a heap on the floor.

Those who were first to rush to her aid picked up a disinfectant bottle. The girl was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Oteri and another daughter summoned to the hospital, demanded the name of the man who telephoned to her. Grace, according to the attendants would not give it. "No! now, Mother, not now," she pleaded, "not here; wait until I come home."

Surgeons say her condition is not critical.

HUMAN 'SPIDER' QUITS DARING LIFE FOR SON

"Fearless Phil" Goes Back to Bellhop Job in Answer to Offspring's Plea

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 4.—"Fearless Phil" Phillips, internationally known "human fly," who performed acrobatic stunts with narrow ledges of skyscrapers for his stage, has quit the thrill business.

"Fearless Phil" this week became a bellhop in a Pittsburgh hotel because his five-year-old boy Glenn pleaded with him to give up the dangerous life.

"Please, Daddy, don't do that any more; you'll get killed," the little fellow sobbed after watching his father climb the wall of a tall office building in New York recently.

Phillips accordingly cancelled all his contracts for daredevil stunts and has returned to his former profession.

Blames Immigration for Women Using Men as Pawns

Washington, Jan. 3. — The trouble with the immigration policy of the United States, Secretary of Labor Davis was informed today in a letter from Edward P. Williams, a Poway, Cal., citizen, is that it is letting too many men in and not enough women. The result is that women, particularly in the West, "are having too many men to play off one against the other.

Preponderance of males is working a great hardship upon us men, especially when we look around for a good woman to marry or employ.

"I respectfully propose that our immigration in the future be fashioned in the proportion of four women being admitted to three men."

FINDS MOTHER NEAR DEATH FROM POISON

Haverhill, Jan. 4. — Startled by a scream from the pantry of his home, No. 3 Hale street, thirteen-year-old William Carter found his mother, Mrs. Ada Carter, thirty-eight, suffering from the effects of poison. She had swallowed the contents of a vial she had been separated from her husband for a year.

R. R. OPERATION BY U. S. COST $1,696,000,000

Only $6,000,000 Now Remains Unpaid in Government's Settlement of Claims

Washington, Jan. 4 (I.N.S.).—Federal control and operation of the nation's great railroads during wartime and the six months guaranty period immediately following their being turned back to private ownership cost the government $1,696,000,000.

This final estimate was made today by James C. Davis, director-general of railroads, in a report to President Coolidge, which carried with it the announcement that less than 1 per cent. of the claims arising out of federal operation remain to be adjusted.

The remaining claims involve only about $6,000,000.

"This liquidation, perhaps the largest, in a single industry, ever undertaken, has been accomplished in practically three years," said Davis in his report.

"The questions involved were entirely without precedent, but notwithstanding there were many disputes involving questions of law and very large amounts of money, the adjustment has been carried out to date without litigation.

"January 1, 1924, marks the end of the tax on the United States treasury by the railroad administration as a war measure. The obligations due from the carriers and collection of outstanding accounts in the field will more than pay the overhead and complete the payment of all unadjusted claims."

The railroad administration virtually winds up its affairs with the enormous sum of $545,000,000 to its balance, consisting of cash and definite obligations due it from railroads.

FIND ANOTHER TANK OF LOST DIXMUDE

Tunis, Jan. 4—A second gasoline tank from the lost French dirigible Dixmude has been found in the Mediterranean, according to advices received here. The Admiralty office at Bizerta is without knowledge of the discovery of the bodies of two more victims of the disaster, as reported in a Bizerta dispatch yesterday.

War Hero's Bride

MRS. R. E. DEVITT

As a climax to a colorful romance of the World War, Raymond E. Devitt of Swampscott, former corporal in the A. E. F., thrice cited for bravery, and Miss Janett MacNeill, wounded ambulance driver and sketcher bearer of the English army, were married in the First Congregational Church at Swampscott.

The couple met by chance overseas while both were in the service of the Allied forces.

Devitt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Devitt of No. 196 Aspen road, Swampscott.

THOUSANDS IN FLOODED PARIS HOMELESS

Troops Guard Against Looters as Seine Waters Inundate Many Districts

Paris, Jan. 4 (I.N.S.).—With thousands homeless, many suburbs inundated and business crippled from the flood the Seine continued rising today.

Colder weather had checked the rains along the upper Seine and it is hoped the crest of the flood will be reached by Sunday night.

The water was approximately 22.3 feet above normal at noon. A stage of nearly twenty-four feet is expected by Sunday.

The situation in low-lying suburbs is most serious. Boissy, Choisy Yerory, Alforville, St. Germain and Louvecienness have been isolated.

Whole districts have been evacuated.

Relief measures are under way to provide food and shelter for the homeless.

Troops and gendarmes are on duty to prevent looting.

The water has reached the top of the parapet at the Quai D'Orsay, the Foreign Office Building.

Railway traffic has been crippled by the closing of the Mirabeau station on the Orleans Railway.

Officials declare there is no fear of a food shortage, but there is danger of an outbreak of sickness in flooded residential sections.

PITTSBURGH IS BATTLING FLOOD

Rivers Rising to Dangerous Heights, Inundating Floors in Downtown Section

Pittsburgh, Jan. 4 (I.N.S.).—Prospects of the most disastrous flood in history faced Pittsburgh today when the waters of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers, rising steadily in the last 24 hours, reached a stage of 29.1 feet, inundating streets in the downtown section.

Entire sections were under water and employes in buildings near the river were working frantically removing merchandise to upper floors. The first floor of the Baltimore & Ohio freight stations was flooded.

Hundreds of homes were surrounded by water up to the first floor. Property damage will run into thousands of dollars, it was said. Virtually all river traffic is at a standstill.

In the downtown section flood pumps were being manned in all buildings within a two-block stretch along the river.

It is expected the crest of the flood will be reached today.

11 MEN SWEPT TO DEATH IN GALE AT SEA

Victims Washed Overboard by Big Wave That Hits Rescue Boat Off New York

Babylon, N. Y., Jan. 4.—As the Atlantic off Fire Island continued to subside today from the storm which raged all of yesterday, coast guardsmen cruised about looking for the bodies of eleven men who are believed to have gone down in the gale.

Seven of the eleven were of a rescue party and the other four were shipwrecked when the rescuers had braved the storm to save.

The rescuers went out last night to search for the Electra, a speedboat, which had left Rockaway Wednesday in command of C. C. Eccleston of Bay Shore, who recently bought her. Eccleston had John Virginier and a man named Williams as companions. The Electra struck on a shoal of the Fire Island bar, about a mile off shore on Wednesday night, as the storm came up.

The trio flashed a light as a distress signal and cast anchor to await the advent of rescuers or the end of the storm.

They kept afloat all of Wednesday night by bailing the boat, but yesterday they fell exhausted. In the meantime a searching party of nine men, headed by Arnold Mayne of Babylon, started for the rescue in the powerboat Sid.

They found Eccleston and his companions unconscious in the Electra, got them aboard the Sid and then started to the rescue of a fishing smack a mile away. They rescued four men and then started back to Babylon. But within a few minutes the Sid ran into some unaccountable trouble and was stalled. A big wave came over the deck and swept eleven men overboard. All were lost.

In the meantime a second rescue boat appeared, sighted the helpless Sid and brought her in.

MONTH IN JAIL FOR SELLING BAD FISH

John J. Herbert, wholesale fish dealer, charged with selling fish unfit to eat, was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction by Judge Logan in South Boston Court today. He appealed. George H. McCaffrey, pure food inspector, discovered the fish, "fancy smelts," in a Salem street store.

Miss Evans has filed suit to enforce payment.

BRIDE SLASHES THROAT, TAKES POISON

Physicians at Lynn Hospital Say Sophia Kaplan Cannot Recover

Two attempts by Mrs. Sophia Kaplan, thirty-one years old, of No. 59 Blossom street, Lynn, bride of six months, to end her life, one by drinking a poisonous disinfectant and the other by slashing her throat seven times with a razor, will prove fatal, according to physicians at the Lynn Hospital.

The father and three sisters of the dying woman, who were in her house at the time of her suicide attempts, profess to know of no motive for her acts.

At the Lynn Hospital where she was removed, physicians found the razor had severed her wind pipe. They said she would die.

Alec Kaplan, husband of the victim, a shoe worker, is said to be working in Amesbury. Relatives of the woman declared the couple had been on good terms and denied that there had been any trouble between them.

The woman's father, Abe ham Alpert, and her three sisters, Hannah, Rebecca and Mary were in various parts of the house when Mrs. Kaplan is said to have entered the bath room. Several moments later, they saw her come out and go into the hall.

At the hospital seventy-five stitches were taken in the wounds in the woman's neck by physicians in the vain hope that her life might be saved.

VENIZELOS SEES MORE TROUBLE FOR GREECE

Ex-Premier Reaches Athens; Says He Will Remain as Long as Needed

Athens, Jan. 4 (A.P.3.)—Former Premier Venizelos, who reached Athens early this morning, refused to make a detailed statement, but from his general remarks to Colonel Plastiras, head of the revolutionary committee, and several officers and newspapermen who met him, it is inferred that he does not take a very optimistic view of the international political situation.

He said he had come back to Greece at the invitation of the leaders of the revolution, that he would carefully study the situation and that he would endeavor to help his country out of her present difficulties. He did not intend to remain here long, he said, but would stay until he though his presence was no longer necessary.

BRITISH WOMEN SCOLD BALDWIN

London, Jan. 4.—British feminist leaders are disgruntled because their sex received no recognition in the New Year's honors list. Miss Florence Underwood, secretary of the Women's Freedom League, has written Prime Minister Baldwin, saying the league was keenly disappointed.

"We think that many women of this country are as fully deserving of recognition of their services as some of the men in the recent list," Miss Underwood writes. "In our view, the State should act impartially between men and women citizens, and we urge you to consider the inclusion in the next list of some of the women who have rendered public and distinguished service to the State."

MEX. OIL FIELDS CAPTURED BY THE REBELS

All of Them in Possession of Revolutionists, Is Vera Cruz Report

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 4—All of the Mexican oil fields are in the possession of the rebels, according to an official dispatch received here today by Adolfo Gimbon from Dr. Lamberto Hill, Huerta headquarters at Vera Cruz.

Washington, Jan. 4 (I.N.S.)—The revolutionary movement in Mexico "rests on sympathy in the ranks of American labor," according to a telegram sent today to President Obregon by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor. Morrison assured Obregon that communication from rebel sources would be disregarded by American labor officials.

Two Step Test In Dancing Is Fifth Lesson; Here Is Proper Method

This Simplest of Figures Is Real Test of Your Ability

Do you know how to dance? This is the fifth of a series of lessons in dancing. Today's lesson tells you how to dance the two-step.

The simplest dancing step used today is the two-step. It is the connecting link between most figures, and is a test in dancing. You can always feel safe if you start to two-step with a partner the first time you take her on the floor. If you do that well and without hesitating motions you know she can at least dance the simpler dances. Here is how it is done.

After assuming your position with hands held properly and your right hand in proper position high under the left shoulder at the lady's back, you step off. Two short slides are the first steps. The man starts with his left foot, sliding it left and slightly forward. Close with the right and repeat. Then slide with the right and close with the left. That is simple and will make dancing a pleasure when mastered.

Remember the first step is slightly diagonal and forward, the second brings the other foot close to the first; the instep of the second foot to the heel of the first foot. Thus, step with the left foot, close with right instep to heel. The lady's right foot goes back when the gentleman's left goes forward, and her left comes with instep to heel of her right foot, and then alternating, as in the man's case.

In turning the man slides his left foot forward and twists it slightly, bringing the right foot up instep to heel so that he has made a half turn when the count is completed. On the next count of step-close-step he twists the right foot and brings left up instep to heel of right, completing the turn.

After learning this step well you will be able to reverse, which means that the man goes backward and the lady forward in making the turn. Reversing is not advisable for beginners, however.

(Another lesson will appear in tomorrow's Boston American.)

130,000 GERMAN WORKERS IN LOCKOUT

Berlin, Jan. 4—Owing to the refusal of the metal workers here to agree to a proposed reduction in wages, the employers today locked out 130,000 men in the industry. One hundred Berlin plants are idle in consequence.

MAKING THE TURN

Ada-May Weeks, star in "Lollipop," and her dancing partner, Nick Long, are just making the turn in a two-step. Note that there is no hugging here. Much more grace can be displayed without hugging or close dancing. The two-step is one of the most popular forms of dancing, and can be readily mastered by anyone who has any sense of rhythm at all.

RUSSIAN 'REDS' IN U. S. 1924 VOTE DRIVE

Congressmen Notified of Plan to Unite All Workers for the Next Election

Washington, Jan. 4 (I.N.S.)—On the eve of the Senatorial investigation of the Russian question, the Communist Internationale and Secretary of State Hughes resumed their controversy today.

The Communist Internationale, through the workers' party of America placed in the hands of all members of Congress a letter from W. Kalorow of Moscow, denying the Hughes charges that the Reds are plotting to place their flag over the White House by force of arms. Instead, he asserted, they seek only the peaceful overthrow of "American Imperialism" through the ballot box and have called upon all workers to unite for the 1924 elections.

Secretary Hughes made public a statement appearing in the Moscow Pravda, dated December 14, last, from G. Zinoviev, president of the Petrograd Soviet, and of the Communist Internationale, complimenting American Communists on the great headway they were making in this country. This statement, the State Department said, was to have appeared in the first issue of the first Communist newspaper to be published in the United States, scheduled to appear in New York, January 1.

The statement subjected American policy, particularly in Haiti, Cuba, the Philippines, Nicaragua and elsewhere, to scathing attack for its "imperialism."

FIGHT ON COMMERCE COMMITTEE STILL ON

Washington, Jan. 4.—Deadlocked for two more ballots, the Senate again failed to elect a chairman for the Interstate Commerce Committee. To date, twenty-seven ballots have been taken.

SEEK MYSTERY GIRL IN POLICE GRAFT PLOT

Autoist, Marked for Plucking, Was Told to Call Her on Phone and Pay $50

A woman of mystery living on Dudley street, Roxbury, may prove to be the brains of a police grafting plot, according to information in connection with the dismissal from the force of Patrolman Matthew J. Sullivan of the Charlestown Station.

Sullivan accused John Paris of Quincy of being responsible for an automobile accident in Charlestown. "Maybe it can be fixed up," the officer is said to have told Paris. The autoist was told, however, that he would have to see the woman on Dudley street and give her $50.

Later, the woman called Paris, who was not at home. She left her telephone number.

Paris reported the matter to the police and Sergeant Magner was assigned to the case. The woman at the telephone number given Paris, denied all knowledge of the case.

The police trial board summoned the woman when Sullivan's case was heard. She failed to appear, rather than hold up the case by issuing a capias, the board dismissed Sullivan. The former officer demanded a public trial and this was held today with the mysterious woman stated as one of the leading witnesses.

On another occasion Sullivan was dropped from the force for a similar offence but was reinstated after a public hearing.

MAYOR CALLS TEAM STRIKE CONFERENCE

Acts Following Resolution Adopted by Members of City Council

Acting on a resolution adopted on Monday by the City Council, Mayor Curley today invited the master teamsters and their employers to meet in the mayor's office at the City Hall tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in an effort to find a way out of the threatened strike.

Mayor Curley's invitation quoted in full the resolution, sponsored by Councillors Watson and Moriarty, which urges both employers and employes to be "right of the "public interests which are paramount to the interests of either or both, of them."

The resolutions requested the Mayor to call in the parties at interest and "use his endeavors towards settlement of the controversy and the preventing of a strike."

TEAM OWNERS' REPLY.

The following letter was received by the editor of the American:

Editor Boston American:

Referring to the possible teamsters' strike, to take effect on Monday, January 7th, we desire to state that the question of shorter working hours and increase in wages has come up many times since the last strike, and each time same has been amicably settled between Local 25 and the Team Owners' Association.

The teamsters have received advances either in money or in working conditions, but we have now arrived at a point where it is impossible to advance them further either in wages or in shortening their hours.

We have offered to renew the 1923 schedule, even though it is a hardship to us.

DEMANDS OF MEN.

The principle advances requested for 1924 are as follows:

The new demands call for the Saturday work day to end at 12 o'clock noon, instead of 4 p. m., as at present.

The regular working day ends at 5 p. m., but new demands call for the day to end at 5 p. m.

A flat wage increase of $4.00 per week is demanded over and above the present wage schedule, except 5-ton trucks, which is $6 more, and 7½-ton trucks which is $13 more, which is as follows:

One-horse teamsters, $27 (one tonk); two-horse teamsters, $28; two-horse teamsters, $30; three-horse teamsters $31; four-horse teamsters, $32; five-horse teamsters, $33; six-horse teamsters, $34; chauffeurs on trucks not exceeding one ton, $28; chauffers on trucks not exceeding three ton, $30; chauffeurs on trucks exceeding three on, $32; lumpers, $30; helpers, $28.

"RAISE IMPOSSIBLE."

On account of general business conditions, it is impossible for the Team Owners to pay any increase in wages or grant shorter working hours.

As the railroads, steamship companies and other terminals remain open until 5 p. m. daily, should our men expect to have their day's work completed and be in the stable by 4 p. m., the result would be that the Team Owners would be paying overtime at time and a half between the hour of 5 and 6 p. m.

EXTRA EXPENSE.

As railroads, steamship companies and other terminals remain open until 5 p. m. Saturdays, should our teamsters cease work at 12 o'clock Saturdays there would be little use of our doing any teaming business whatever on Saturdays, as we would be obliged to haul customers' merchandise on Saturdays from 12 M. to 4 p. m., and would have to pay time and a half to all employes working after 12 o'clock Saturdays, and, this would result in an expense of thousands of dollars annually, and this extra expense we, the Team Owners' Association, positively cannot assume.

At this time we desire to state that there are ten holidays in the year for which we pay our employes, although they do not work, and these ten holidays are as follows:

New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Patriots' Day, Memorial Day, June 17, July 4, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

This is practically a ten-day vacation each year for such employes, with pay, and in case any of the men do work on a holiday they receive two days' pay.

GEORGE F. STEBBINS,
Secretary Master Teamsters' Association.

Vexed by Delay

MRS. DORRIT WOODHOUSE

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 4.—Declaring that the rights of his plaintiff, Mrs. Dorrit VanDeusen Woodhouse, are being injured by the delay of the defence in the $1,500,000 alienation suit against Lorenzo E. Woodhouse and his wife, Mary Kennedy Woodhouse, in their appeal from the $100,000 verdict obtained against them, Warren R. Austin has asked the Supreme Court of Vermont for an order of progress.

C. H. Darling for the defendants, against whom one of the biggest verdicts in an alienation case ever given in this country was awarded by a jury in Chittenden County, told the court that there was still much work to be done on the exceptions and that there are so many points to be covered that he thought the case would not be ready until next May.

L. R. MOSS, COTTON BROKER, SUSPENDED

New York, Jan. 4.—Announcement of suspension for 30 days of Lester R. Moss has been made on New York Cotton Exchange.

A subsequent official announcement stated that the exhange had merely suspended Moss from the privileges of the floor for the 30-day period and that the membership or business of his firm, Moss & Ferguson, was in no way affected.

Moss was charged, it was stated, with violating an exchange by-law which has to do with personal misconduct with another member of the exchange.

20TH CENTURY FLIER IN WRECK

Wheels of Engine Derailed as Train Smashes Into Auto

Buffalo, Jan. 4.—The second section of the New York Central Twentieth Century Limited hit a stalled automobile at Depew, near here, and the pony wheels of the engine were derailed. None of the cars of the train left the tracks. The train was westbound.

Occupants of the automobile were able to leave the machine before the crash. The train hit the auto at a speed of forty miles an hour. The machine was ground under the wheels of the locomotive. The passengers were shaken up but none was injured.

The accident was similar in many respects to the one that occurred to a section of the Twentieth Century on the morning of December 9 at Forsythe when nine persons were killed and more than a score injured.

The automobile was owned by William Nerenburg of No. 39 Glenwood avenue, Buffalo, according to a telephone message from Deputy Sheriff Stumpf, at the scene of the accident. Nerenburg was accompanied by a young woman.

'RUM ROW' IS TO FUNCTION ALL WINTER

Passenger From Bermuda Tells of Smuggling Activities Planned

New York, Jan. 4.—"Rum row" will continue its activities throughout the Winter, J. B. Girard, a passenger on the Fort George, said today on his arrival from Bermuda.

Nine vessels cleared from Bermuda a week before Christmas, he said, each carrying about 5,000 cases of liquor. Two returned last week after having sold their cargoes to rum runners off New York.

Federal agents hoarded the United States Lines Mount Clay today and confiscated seven cans of Opium, 800 grams of cocaine and twenty-one bottles of liquor said to have been found in the mattress of Urbano Jasier, a Filipino fireman.

300 AGED PATIENTS SAVED FROM FIRE

Montreal, Jan. 4.—Three hundred aged and infirm patients in Gamella Hospital on the eastern end of the city were removed without mishap early today while fire swept the hospital buildings. All were removed to city institutions.

DARTMOUTH AND PRINCETON SEXTETS BATTLE ON ARENA ICE

IMPORTANT COLLEGE GAME

Princeton and Dartmouth will figure in a most important college hockey game when they will meet tonight at the Arena.

Both are stronger than they were a year ago. The Tigers have a veteran team and have picked up good men from the sophomore class for second string-ers, in which department they were weak last season.

Dr. George Gaw, cracker-jack boys from the sophomore class in Jack Everett of Concord, N. H., who prepped at Colby Academy and Johnny Maneur, of Melrose High. Dartmouth has one of the strongest and best balanced teams in the college's history.

On the other hand Dartmouth has been fortunate to get two

Rivalry of the keenest sort has developed between the Tigers and Dartmouth. Dr. George Gaw, coach of Princeton, formerly coached at Dartmouth where he enjoyed success. When the Green decided to adopt a graduate coaching system in hockey and Leon Tuck was named for the position, Princeton immediately signed Gaw. His record at old Nassau in the last two seasons speaks for itself.

Boston fans who have seen Princeton here in two games agree that it will take an exceptional college team to send the Tigers down to defeat.

Capt. Wall

Coach Tuck has a very capable hockey team. He has plenty of hockey brains distributed through his team. Tuck has Frank Bisehy of Dorchester to work the left wing with Johnny Maneur and Jack Everett. For replacements he has Stanley Lyon and Danny Sly, two Newton boys who are real class.

Dartmouth presents another defense. Capt. Ed Hall has had many years of college and club experience. Bob plays defense, an ideal berth for him with his great jump and stick handling skill. Hall caged the winning goal against Harvard in that desperate overtime battle here last winter. The Princeton players have been instructed to pay particular attention to him.

Dave Perry of Auburn will share the outer defense with Hall. In goal will be Ted Learnard, Dartmouth football manager and golf player of merit. Local fans will recall the wonderful goal game this Newton boy displayed last year when he frustrated the Crimson attack and turned back in the vicinity of sixty shots.

Van Gerbig

Princeton will go onto the ice in fine condition. Charlie Davis, the dashing center ice, who has been out of the game with a broken knee, will be back in action to work with his snappy wings, Buns Stout and Aleck Sayles. Russell Van Gerbig and Capt. Al Wall are eager to cut loose against Dartmouth. Little Gleason in the net is just as spectacular as ever.

NEARLY SOLD 'EM BILL FOR ONE CENT

The story goes that Wild Bill Donovan was once on the verge of being sold for one cent. Roger Connor was then owner of the Waterbury Club and Donovan was a pitcher on that team. Bill had a bad day and walked ten and hit one, and the cent that was to send Donovan to Meriden was on the bar when the Waterbury Club captain walked in and caused the big deal to fall through. Next day Donovan stepped out and won a 1 to 0 game in 14 innings, and hit a ball over the fence himself for the only tally.

PENN COACHING STAFF MUST NOT PLAY

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—"We shall not have on our coaching staff next season any man who plays professional football during or after our season. Thus spoke Lou Young, coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team, when asked about the make-up of his staff for the 1924 season.

"I do not think it is right for a coach who also engages in professional football to be with college players and for that reason all contracts next year will have a clause inserted in them that will prevent the coach from engaging in the game for money."

Young's dictum is backed by the alumni of Penn in addition to a number of players of yesteryear who have been strong for a coaching staff that attends strictly to coaching.

Last season "Pose" Miller, coach of the scrub team at Penn, and Lud Wray emerged in professional contests. Miller played port of the season with the Melrose club of Atlantic City, and with the Frankford Yellow Jackets. Wray did not play until the Penn season had ended.

WILSON RATED BEST AMONG CLASS STARS

By DAMON RUNYON

The middleweight division, well nigh defunct for years, suddenly finds itself possessed of some little class. It is in a fair way to a real revival. It requires the activity of the match-makers, who seem to have lost sight of the division, to put it back where it belongs.

Johnny Wilson

For years it has been said that the division died with the passing of Stanley Ketchel, "The Michigan Assassin." This saying finally came to be accepted as a fact. A number of mediocre champions of the division added to the belief that the class was gone.

But in the past two or three years new middleweights have been developing.

There may be no Ketchels among them, but there are some real good men in the division, as good in point of boxing ability as the division has ever known.

The trouble with the middleweight division, as the writer sees it, is that the match-makers have fallen in with the theory that the division has disappeared.

Instead of matching middleweights against middleweights, they match middleweights against light heavyweights and light heavyweight class is small.

A middleweight nowadays is a man who weighs 160 pounds, or under, while if he scales a pound above 160 pounds he is rated as a light heavyweight.

As a matter of fact, the very best of the middleweights today, with the exception of the champion Harry Greb, are men around 158 pounds, and even lighter.

As proof of the class of the division just now the writer makes bold to say that there are half a dozen legitimate middleweights who can give Greb a good fight, perhaps beat him, yet Greb has been whipping light

HARVARD TRACK TEAM'S CALL NETS 150

More than 150 candidates have reported for Harvard track.

Coach Farrell is optimistic, and declares that the team should take every meet on the schedule.

Percy Jenkins may report later. He could be used on the relay team. The baseball leader was a member of his freshman relay team, captained by Merrill, and if he can help out, will report just as soon as a football injury becomes perfectly healed.

Charley Eastman and Joe McGlone were absent, but the other athletes were 100 per cent strong, and included Heinie Dunker, shot putter; Dick Geroud, high jumper; Bob Hyatt, jumper and pole vaulter; John Watters, half-miler; Bob Allen, last year's freshman captain, who is a sprinter, and Earl Evans, the football star, who aims to be a weight thrower.

The runners will not begin work until Monday as the board track on Soldiers' Field will not be completed until then.

YOUNG STRIBLING IS WINNER BY A KAYO

Fayetteville, N. C., Jan. 4—Young Stribling, the Macon, Ga., schoolboy, knocked out Kid Numbers of the Seventeenth Field Artillery in the fourth round of their scheduled 15-round bout at the Fort Bragg Arena.

Stribling outfought Numbers from the start and had the soldier on the defensive throughout. Numbers went down for the count from a terrific uppercut to the jaw, after Stribling had rushed in with a rain of body blows.

heavyweights and heavyweights for years.

A class must be good that has men able to stand off a man who has beaten Tom Gibbons, a fighter who spent fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey.

There are three real good English middleweights in America at the present time, Jimmy Todd, the English champion; Ted Moore and Frank Moody.

The first showing the matchmakers here gave Todd was against a light heavyweight. They did not accord him the courtesy of a showing against a man of his own class. Todd lost the decision, but made a strong impression.

Moore and Moody are both good men. They have had few opportunities since coming to America.

TORONTO WINS THE FOURTH STRAIGHT

Toronto University team won their fourth straight hockey game against Harvard at the Arena. The score was 2 to 1. The game was marked by dashes up and down the ice by players of both sextets.

Ted Crosby

Toronto scored in the middle of the first period when Hudson captured a side pass of the puck from Wright, the left wing, and shot it into the net.

Again in the second chapter, the Canadian collegians cut loose and garnered another counter when Hudson took a pass from Westman.

Beals made the only score for the Crimson when he gathered the disc from scrimmage in front of the net and wizzed it by Thompson who played a swell game in the visitors' cage.

During the first two periods the Toronto team had things very much their own way and outplayed the Crimson. The Harvard team took a brace in the last stanza and played fine brand of hockey. Brilliant work was furnished by Hodder, Beals, Walker and Crosby.

Toronto's first score was netted in seven minutes and fifty-four seconds and the second in two minutes and twenty-six seconds. The Harvard score on the third period was in four minutes and three seconds.

The game was marked by brilliant handling of sticks and the puck.

WESTERN MEN JOIN AMERICAN SKI TEAM

Four men, all residents of the Middle West and all of Scandinavian stock, make up the skiing team. They are Bernt C. Hansen, Andrew Haugen, Ragnar Ostvedt and Karl Neilsen. Hansen and Haugen are natives of Minneapolis, while Ostvedt and Neilsen are naturalized citizens, both having immigrated from Norway.

The final practice workouts of the team are being conducted this week and its members are to sail with the American Olympic hockey team on Jan. 9.

The ski team will compete in four events at Chamonix—a 50 kilometer race, 12 to 18 kilometer race, ski jumping contest and ski efficiency contest.

TODD WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE JUNE 28

New Bedford, Jan. 4.—Ronald Todd, European middleweight champion, will defend his title at the National Sporting Club, London, June 28, against Frank Moody of Wales.

Both boxers are at present in this country.

Moody won his last six fights, five by a knockout, while Todd lost the decision to Tommy Loughran in his bout at New York.

The match was closed by Billy Amos, manager of Moody who received word from "Peggy" Hurst on that the championship bout had been arranged.

SCHOOLBOYS TO BE BUSY ON TRACK

Schoolboy track teams will open the winter indoor season tonight at the Newton high and Medford high school gyms. The Newton boys have been out for practice during the Christmas vacation and will have an interclass meet.

Newton High has the "makings" of a good track team with a large number of veteran point winners on hand.

Ex-Captain Wesley Dicks is back in the 1,000-yard run and is good for five points in practically every meet. Dicks ranked second only to Bill McKillop last Winter.

Captain Mercer and Weeks in the dash and the 360 are also veterans and consistent winners.

Hyall, one of the dependables in football, ran the 600 last Winter and is back in perfect condition after a hard grid season.

The graduation of Julius Kohler, who made good in Bowdoin College football, leaves a big vacancy in the broad jump and the dash. Newton also is without any dependable high jumpers.

Ned Dewing, captain of football, is expected to bolster up the team in the shot put. Walter McQueston and Charlie Consodine, both letter men for the past two years, are back and making good time over the sticks.

Newton will not compete with Brookline or Medford this Winter in dual meets, because it is not possible to secure a neutral track.

However, Huntington School may see its way clear, later in the season, to allow the meet to be held on their

CAMBRIDGE ENTERS TEAM FOR RELAYS

Philadelphia, Jan. 4—Cambridge University of England will send a relay team to the Penn carnival April 25-26, Fred C. W. S. Ibis towe of the Cambridge A. C., said that the English runners will arrive in New York about April 18, but did not specify what distance will be selected.

The Cambridge team plans to run in both Friday and Saturday's programs and will also bring two substitutes among the speediest Oxonians of them will be a distance man for the intermediate two-mile run.

The Cambridge team is being trained by Alec Nelson, one of the greatest runners in the history of English sport.

This will be the first time that Cambridge has been represented by a full team in Penn's relay carnival although it had a combined team here with Oxford in 1923.

YALE SCORES FOUR AND MONTREAL ONE

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 4—In a sharply contested game Yale outscored the University of Montreal at hockey 5 to 1.

Eckard entered the match in the final period and was the only Canadian to penetrate the home defence. With his long shots he poked the puck to the Eli net.

Tom Sargent's all round game featured the Yale play. He drove three of the goals into the net and exhibited a stonewall defence.

RUMORS OF YEAR ARE CONFIRMED

Former Mate Now on Honeymoon Trip to Europe With His Second Wife

New York, Jan. 4.—Rumors of more than a year's standing of estrangement and divorce of William Pierson Hamilton and his wife, Juliet Morgan Hamilton, sister of J. P. Morgan, were confirmed today when it was learned Mr. Hamilton is remarried.

Mr. Hamilton, [illegible] is at the honeymoon cottage of his wife's parents, on Montecito road, Santa Barbara, on the coast of [illegible] Mrs. Hamilton is the former Miss Juliet Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Hamilton was divorced in Nevada some time ago, it was revealed. What the grounds were, or whether husband or wife sought the divorce, are still unknown.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton figured in a sensational [illegible] in 1922. Mrs. Hamilton, then Miss Juliet Morgan, lived at 82 East Thirty-sixth st., despite the rumors that they were estranged. Only recently rumors [illegible] rumors of a separation.

MARRIAGE IS SURPRISE.

Mrs. Juliet Morgan Hamilton is now residing at the Thirty-sixth street home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woods. Mr. Woods was formerly police commissioner.

Mrs. Hamilton declined to be interviewed.

Mr. Hamilton, a descendant of Alexander Hamilton, became part of the Morgan firm three years after he married the daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan. He took a leading part in some of the outstanding activities of the firm.

He was an executor of the will of the late magnate, who left $70,000,000 to Mrs. Hamilton in trust, to be distributed among their children.

No members of the family would comment upon the marriage. Friends of the family expressed great surprise explaining they had understood that Mr. Hamilton was an invalid and was not expected to live.

SON ELOPED WHEN 20.

No one could be found who knew the second Mrs. Hamilton. Despatches from the coast failed to describe her, or to give precedence. Her family lived in New York or for Southern [illegible] years.

Nov. 20, [illegible] Mrs. Juliet Hamilton, at St. Mark's Church, April 13, 1901.

Eldest son Hamilton, one of the children of the Hamiltons, eloped in 1920, when he was only twenty years old, with Mrs. Gertrude Sperry, thirty-two, whom he met in Paris.

BUTTERFIELD ASSAILS STATE FINANCE BOARD

Agricultural College Head Denounces Interference With Institution's Policies

Another attack on the State Commission on Administration and Finance, now under fire in the Senate, was made by President Kenyon L. Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, in his report today to the trustees of the institution at the State House.

K. L. Butterfield

He declared that interference of the Commission in the policies of the college had driven the executives almost to the limit of endurance.

"This sort of procedure cannot go on," said President Butterfield, "If you desire to maintain the morale of the staff and if you expect the institution to do its work economically and efficiently.

"Several of the decisions of the commission have been practically tepring. Three bulletins of the experiment stations have been refused publication.

LEAVES JOB OPEN.

"We have had also [illegible] months at [illegible] the position of the [illegible] the commission can control [illegible] vacancy in the office of [illegible] specialist in extension service which we asked filled with us September has not been filled because the commission at first questioned the policy of our continuing the work so long as the State Board of Health has a nutrition worker. Our nutrition specialist was an officer established a number of years ago under joint agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture and does work practically required under the Smith Lever act of Congress, which the Legislature accepted.

President Butterfield recommended a broader scope for the college including the establishing of three new courses, namely a course in general science, a teachers' course and a course in homemaking.

LORING'S RETORT.

Replying to President Butterfield's attack, Homer Loring, chairman of the Commission on Administration and Finance, said:

"In the opinion of the Commission on Administration and Finance the Massachusetts Agricultural College, for which the State appropriates each year approximately $1,000,000, needs financial control and supervision just as much as any other State institution.

"The Legislature has authorized and instructed the Commission to see that this money is properly expended. Printing, travel and additional improvements have been supervised and need supervision. What Dr. Butterfield really argues for is a private treasury, filled from the public funds.

LADY ROSS ASKS DIVORCE IN SCOTLAND

Former Kentucky Girl Names New York Woman as Co-respondent

London Jan. 4—Lady Ross, wife of Sir Charles Ross, has filed suit for divorce in the session courts, naming Emily Key Hoffman of New York co-respondent, said an Edinburgh dispatch to the Daily Express today.

Before her marriage to Sir Charles in 1911 Lady Ross was Miss Portelia Burnley Elkson, daughter of Andrew Elkson of Louisville, Ky.

Sir Charles, who is fifty-one years old, has had a distinguished career in the British army. He is the owner of vast estates in Scotland.

THINKS HE WED WOMAN 'SOLD' TO NEGRO

Brewery Worker Identifies Mrs. Lamaire's Picture as His Two-Weeks Bride

New York Jan. 4—Telling a stirring and romantic story, Paul Schmidt, a brewery worker, claimed that he had lived for two weeks with the beautiful Mrs. Helen Lamaire in the belief that he was her husband.

Mrs. Lamaire recently charged in her suit for divorce from Elsler Lamaire, Los Angeles moving picture producer, that the latter had sold her to a negro gambler at Tia Juana for $500.00.

Elsler Lamaire — Mrs Helen Lamaire

Schmidt said he met her in August, 1922, under the name of Madame Helen Nolensky. She said she was a Viennese. She lived in a high class apartment here and seemed well supplied with funds.

One day she dropped out of his life. A year later she returned and they were married. For two weeks they lived happily, Schmidt says, she told him Elsler Lamaire was her cousin and she kept the latter's picture in her room.

While the honeymoon days were at their height Schmidt says she told him:

"I will be going away soon, and I don't want you to hunt for me. Above all do not let the police hear about me. I have found a way to become rich. When you hear from me again I shall be very wealthy and you will not suffer for what you have done."

Then, she vanished, taking very little, pictures and other articles that might identify her, and left the bridal flat as though a woman had never lived there.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now with Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

MANIAC WITH AXE IN FEROCIOUS FIGHT

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 4—Swinging a two-bitted axe and howling like a wild beast, a demented man, Tony Krusisci, stormed the little house at Connell Junction station and barricaded the door. The telegraph operator ran for help. Reinforced by section hands the party brought a battering ram into action.

The door was smashed in, pinning the maniac under it. He fought ferociously until spikes were driven through the door and he was virtually crated.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

"I am going to Europe," said Henry M. Robinson to me yesterday, "with the smartest hope of doing something—all I can—to remedy a situation which is not remedied before long, would probably lead to catastrophe. It would hurt not only Europe, but the whole world, including our country."

Mr. Robinson, who was in New York yesterday calls on the Aquitania for Cherbourg tomorrow, to join the International Conference which hopes to solve the German reparation problem.

Henry Robinson is one of the most human fellows we ever ever hope to meet. He has shown success and he has also known failure. He knows what it is to be well off, and he has known what it is to be worth less than nothing, to be saddled with debt.

Perhaps, however this should be immediately added of all the many enterprises he has tackled in his time, only one proved a fizzle and that was when, as a very young man, he started out to become owner of a chain of newspapers extended to stretch from the W. to the New York Times. He has equally successful when, as a social discovered that newspapers could lose money as well as make money, and when they can do so young Robinson found a heavy bale of debts hanging about his neck. It did not take him many years to [illegible]

Mr Robinson's various business activities took him to many states. He [illegible] of our republic [illegible] lead to [illegible] become intimately acquainted with its resources and financial [illegible] affairs. He did so we [illegible] he retired several years ago [illegible] went to California to take life easy.

* * *

But the climate of California has a habit of infusing vigilance and red devils with an overflowing measure of pep. The Easterner had not been long in California when he began to toy with banking—he had been a bank officer, among other things, earlier in his career. Almost before he knew it he found he had floated [illegible] long into "the banking game and he is now and has been for several years the dynamic head of one of the very largest banking institutions in the West, the Security National Bank of California, and its affiliated institutions.

* * *

Nor is the end. Since his "retirement" Mr. Robinson, in addition to his irrepressible banking activity, has gone into the aviation field in the vast development of the Southern California Airplane Company which is preparing for such diverse fields as [illegible] of the Southern California Edison Company, hydroelectric [illegible] shipping, labor, co-operative marketing, etc.

* * *

He always wanted to do things on a big scale. He began engineering [illegible] when he was a young man struck the United States. His own pleasing individuality and turned out successful. He was on the inside of the billion-dollar steel merger.

This anecdote will give you an insight into how in Rions of dollars were formed during those days.

The late J. P. Morgan had one of Carnegie $45,000,000 for his five eighths interest in the corporation of which Henry Oliver owned the other eight. Charles M. Schwab showed up at Mr. Morgan's desk as Robinson was visiting on other business and offered to buy Carnegie's interest. Oliver would have been willing to sell for half that amount or less, but he boldly asked that he wanted $8,000,000, the same rate Carnegie had received. Schwab explained he had only authority to pay more than $6,000,000, and that he would have to report back to Mr. Morgan. Next day Schwab appeared and [illegible] would like to have a chat with Oliver.

Oliver told Schwab to explain to Mr. Morgan that he (Oliver) knew all there was to know about "Scotch [illegible] town, the downtown [illegible] an unknown quantity to him, and his main purpose in life was to keep clients of his out of the hands of [illegible] source of supply, there was nothing to do but to do my himself the conference, which he proceeded to do so. He added that at the moment he felt as though a bidge for himself as he did for the Carnegie, and that his price then [illegible] forth and forever at $6,000,000.

Schwab returned next day with the news that Mr. Morgan authorized the purchase at $8,000,000.

Selling Orders Predominate with Most Price Changes in New York Small

AM. RADIATOR AT NEW HIGH SINCE '22

Selling orders again predominated in today's New York stock market, although several reported serious the sale matters and independent steels.

Nash Motors dropped 2 points and Producers & Refiners 1¼.

Marine preferred unchanged over 2 points in reflection of the proposed increase in shipping rates.

Gulf States Steel was a point lower.

American Radiator rose a point to a fresh high since 1922. Most gains, however, were small. The market rallied around noon.

Some of the standard industrials yielded fractionally to sell ng pressure, but a fair demand was noted for a number of the tobacco, public utility, motor accessory and mercantile issues.

American Sumatra Tobacco preferred jumped to parity. Most gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by [illegible] U S Rubber and [illegible] Sinclair.

Early losses of a point or so were noted in Baldwin Locomotive, Royal Dutch and Producers & Refiners.

Trading of numerous industrials shows based on individual items, but on the [illegible] there was little alteration in the [illegible] of the customary leaders.

Gains of fractional [illegible] were recorded in the [illegible] issues, General Electric rising 4¼ points and American Sumatra and Lorillard Tobacco preferred [illegible] each. STELLA DALLAS

By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

What Is the Effect Upon the Two, and Especially Upon Their Strange and Beautiful Child Laurel?

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Milhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE most expensive automobiles on the market today are selling for a dollar a pound. This is very cheap when you figure that you have to pay more than that for tobacco or salted almonds.

NO man is so poor that he can't go in and buy a couple of dollars' worth of Rolls Royce or fifty cents' worth of Ford.

IT won't be long before they'll be selling these cheap cars in bunches like roses.

IT will be pretty nice when you can go into an automobile agency and say to the clerk: "Give me a dozen of your freshest motor cars."

YOUR girl loves you to take her a few orchids when you call, but she'd appreciate it a whole lot more if you'd bring a hand full of Fords.

YOU could get the clerk to wrap them up so they'd look like violets.

INSTEAD of taking your girl a box of candy or a bunch of flowers this evening you could make a bigger hit by taking her a spark plug or a high cap.

IF you don't want to take her those, she'll be just as satisfied with a couple of cylinder heads and a pair of shock absorbers.

BUT one guy was so cheap that all he'd give his sweetheart toward an automobile was a road map.

AND he even cut that out of the Sunday paper which he swiped off his neighbor's front porch.

HE'S waiting for the other fellow to give her the car and then when she gets it together he'll go out riding with her.

HE told her she'd better hurry and keep company with some bird who'd bring her gasoline every evening.

IF she gets gas and oil that's all she'll have to worry about, because he knows where there's lots of air and water.

THERE'S nothing like having a sweetheart who'll give you an automobile, even if it's only one part at a time.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Lame Duck."

A phrase applied originally to members of the London Stock Exchange who couldn't settle at the appointed time and were expelled.

"Beauty is truth."

Keats, the young English poet, wrote in his "Ode on a Grecian Urn."

"Abide with me from morn till eve."

This line is from "Evening," by John Keble (1792-1866)

"Self defense is Nature's eldest law."

John Dryden declared in his play "Absalom."

"It requires a surgical operation to get a joke well into a Scottish understanding."

Sydney Smith, the English humorist, is authority for this statement in "Lady Holland's Memoir."

"Doubt is the key to knowledge."

Curiosity and doubt are the incentives that drive men to search for the truth, according to this old Persian saying.

"Most people would succeed in small things if they were not troubled with great ambitions."

Intent on things beyond their reach and powers, people often overlook riches of value close at hand, Longfellow says in "Driftwood" from his "Table Talks."

"Water, water, everywhere
Nor any drop to drink."

This plight of a man at sea is from Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner."

"Hope against Hope."

James Montgomery in "The World Before the Flood" originated this well-known expression.

"The Niobe of the nations! There she stands!"

Thus Byron addresses Italy in his "Childe Harold."

YOUR FORMER LACK OF DISCIPLINE NOW HURTS YOUR CHILDREN

Parents, are your children getting beyond control?

Are you begining to realize that your lack of discipline when they were younger is causing you to lose your grip on them now?

Is it not true that you might have maintained control over them if you had not been so interested in what you wanted to do yourself?

It is quite likely that you shudder at the things your children are doing and you pray that they may come through unscathed, but aside from sputtering a bit you make no real effort to be obeyed.

Your children are accustomed to your "sputterings" and pay no attention to what you say.

Now you must adopt another method to get the desired results.

RADIO AMERICAN

RADIO INTERFERENCE IS REDUCED TO MINIMUM

A real demonstration of the practical results of the Boston American's campaign to end code interference with broadcasting is continued in last night's log.

Interference in 450 meters was so slight as to be negligible. There was some interference from 600-meter spark stations, but this is a feature of the problem which must await international action.

Three ship operators accounted for the only 450-meter interference to broadcasting. Two of these ships were so far out at sea that their signals were weak. The signals of the other interfered for only three minutes.

Compare this record with the interference report for a night, picked at random, about the time the American established its monitor station for the logging of interference.

On the evening of December 20 sixteen different stations transmitted calls or messages on 420 meters, thus causing serious interference almost continuously from the beginning of the watch until 11 p. m.

NAVY ACTS.

Before the order of the Radio Corporation of America to its shore stations to refuse 450-meter traffic, conditions were even worse than on December 20.

The following letter has been received from Commander R. H. Mann, acting Director Naval Communications at Washington, in reply to a letter from the American which called attention to the fact that NAX, the Navy station at Morehead City, N. C., had accepted 450-meter traffic.

"Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of December 29 in which you complain of the interference caused by the naval radio station (NAN) at Morehead City, N. C.

"In general, The Navy radio stations do not handle 450-meter frequency traffic during broadcasting hours, and the complaint has been referred to the commandant of the Fifth Naval District, who will take the necessary corrective action."

WNAC, the broadcasting station of the Shepard Stores, will hold the air next Monday with one of the largest "remote control" features yet. This will be the broadcasting from the Wilbur Theatre of William A. Brady's musical success, "Up She Goes," which opens its Boston run on Monday. The three acts will be broadcast complete. Reports from Philadelphia and New York, where the play has had long runs, are that the book and lyrics are unusual. The cast is headed by Nancy Welford, last seen here as the star of Edward Peple's "Orange Blossom," and by Richard Bold—Gallagher, who is even more amusing than on his previous appearance as the cameraman in "Up in the Clouds." The broadcast will begin at 8:15 and will be on 278 meters.

I would like to know if you would send me all the dope on the American super set, and also all the hookups?

RONALD G. WORSLEY

Northampton.

All the material for the Boston American Super has been collected, carefully edited, and finally prepared for the printer and engraver. If the latter gentlemen work with their usual astonishing celerity, we will have a booklet giving the most complete data on the Super (four tubes), the Super-Dick (two tubes), and the Baby-Super (one tube), sometime next week. As announcement will be made in this page just as soon as the presses begin turning on the booklet.

Radio Editor:

I have just built a two-tube Super-Dick according to your specifications, and I have got good results from the local stations, but have been unable to pick up stations outside of Boston. I am using a two-stage Crosley amplifier and can hear it all over the room. Am using 60 feet of aerial from the second floor of a two-family house, with about 30 feet of lead in. Have checked up wiring according to the drawings on the American and am all O. K. but there is something wrong that I can't understand. Please give me further instructions if possible.

L. H. SIMPSON.

Dorchester.

It is impossible to advise you without seeing the set and working it. A Super-Dick made according to specifications of tested parts will give you a long range. The only solution is to test every part separately, as well as tubes and batteries, until the trouble is discovered.

7:30 p. m.—Evening program. (1) Selected verses by Mr. Charles L. H. Wagner, Radio poet; (2) Red Cross Health Talk by Henry Copley Green of the Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross; (3) Musicale by Miss Marion Whitmore, soprano, accompanied by Miss Ampico in the Chickering. (1) "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Dvorak; "Absent," Metcalf; "Harp of Tara's Halls," Old Virginia, Metcalf. (2) "Tosca, Aria (Vissi d' Arte), Puccini; "Will o' the Wisp," Spross; "Mighty Lak' a Rose," Nevin (4) Radario, "The Boor," by Anton Tchekoff; the cast, Helena Tsereva, Poupov (a young widow, mistress of a country estate); Grigori Smirnovitch Smirnov, proprietor of a country estate); Luka (servant of Mrs. Popov); a gardener; a coachman. Mrs. Popov, played by Catharine Huntington; Smirnov, played by Lawrence Eddison; Luka, played by Ray McCully; Gardener, played by Herbert H. Patrick; Coachman, played by Frank Volchovitch. Place, the estate of Mrs. Popov; time, the present. The stage shows a reception room hung in black velvet, with a French window in the rear leading to the garden, and a door right leading to the dining room and hallway. The hour is a one-act comedy given by the Boston Stage Society at The Barn, No. 36 Joy Street, Boston. This play has been produced at four invitation performances, to introduce the public to the place of experimentation of the Boston Stage Society—and is the first of a series of bills to be presented during this season. The next one being "The Clouds," by Kvapil, a three-act drama, translated from the Bohemian. The Clouds is to be given during the week of January 7, every evening and a Saturday matinee. We invite any of the public interested in experimentation in dramatic work to visit The Barn or to join with the group who are working out problems in lighting, setting, costume, acting and direction. At this playhouse there is an opportunity for young students in any of the arts to present their talents before a small membership audience. The purpose of the Boston Stage Society is to encourage young artists of serious purpose and to provide them with a centre for the expression of their art. The public is invited to join in this experiment of promoting interest in original work.

BILL FAVORS EDISON AND GAS INQUIRY

Representative Winnett of Charlestown filed in the House a petition that the Department of Public Utilities report a true valuation of the properties of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company and the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, with a view to furnishing the Legislature with a basis for determining the question of public ownership.

37 STATIONS ON LOUD SPEAKER

Allston Fan Records Remarkable Results on American's Super Set

Charles J. MacKinnon, No. 20 Boulevard terrace, Allston, makes the following unsolicited comment on the American Super:

"I have tried several sets, but the Super beats them all, and I certainly thank the American from which I got the hook-up and instructions. The second night I listened in I received the following, all on a loud speaker:

KDKA, East Pittsburgh; WJY, New York; WSAD, Providence; WNAC, Boston; WGI, Medford; WEAF, New York; CHYC, Montreal; WJAR, Providence; WDAF, Chicago; WIAD, Philadelphia; WCAD, Canton, N. Y; WHAD, Minneapolis; WAAF, Chicago; WOC, Davenport; 2XB, New York; IXC, Ellsworth, Me.

Other stations I have heard, all in four nights, totaling twelve hours, all on loud speaker, are:

WOO, Philadelphia; WCAP, Washington; WFAN, Providence; WIAC, Galveston, Texas; WDAP, Chicago; WHB, Kansas City; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WOS, Jefferson City, Mo.; WCID, Zion; WRC, Washington; WIP, Philadelphia; WHN, New York; KYW, Chicago; WGY, Schenectady; WFI, Philadelphia; WCAT, Rapid City, S. Dakota; WTAM, Cleveland; KSD, St. Louis; WSAI, Cincinnati; WJZ, New York.

This is a total of thirty-seven different stations. WDAP, Chicago, comes in so loud I have to shut the doors to keep from waking up the rest of the family.

The Listener

What has been done to WEAF lately? They come pounding in louder than I ever remember hearing them. A friend of mine listened to them for more than an hour last night on a crystal set. This means we have another "local" station on our list, and one of the best in the country. It is the only station in the country that will sell its time to anyone with the necessary wherewithal, but it has good stuff just the same.

Have you noticed any change in the quality of the broadcast of WSAI, the United States Playing Card Co., Cincinnati? On New Year's eve they began the use of storage batteries as the sole source of transmitting power. It took sixteen hundred volts of storage batteries to do the trick. Hope they have some kind of a home charger for their cabinet, as it would be something of a task to lug sixteen hundred volts of storage battery to the nearest garage.
